SIUE COVID-19 update:

Masks are still required regardless of vaccination status during LRC events, when entering any SIUE building and in public indoor spaces such as lobbies, open spaces, and walkways. If fully vaccinated, masks are optional in individual workspaces and private environments.

If fully vaccinated, distancing is optional, though seating that is pre-positioned for appropriate physical distancing should not be moved.

If not fully vaccinated, masks and distancing is required.

All that glitters in June...

Marian Jaitto-Jeffrey

Each month comes and goes with significant events we personally encounter or known events we have come to accept and celebrate over time. The beauty of each month is when we achieve laid down goals. Such joy to strike out accomplished task!

Just like every other month, the celebrations in June are vast. From it being described as a bridal month: I hear people love to tie the knots in June; to honoring of fathers, fatherhood and paternal bonds, the month of June further reflects its uniqueness in home and family, business and communication, health and wellness, nature, arts and culture, sports (the famous Wimbledon), food and work, music and relaxation, pet and animals as well as having the longest day of the year.

There is something for everyone to support and celebrate in June even with the above-mentioned aspects of our everyday life:

- Health and Wellness: June is a national month for many health causes: Alzheimer, cancer, hernia, cataract and many more.
- Nature: The commencement of a warmer weather suitable for camping. #greatoutdoormonth
- Arts and Culture: It is the National Caribbean-American heritage month as well as the African-American Music Appreciation month.
- Food: June recognizes soul food, steakhouses and country cooking
- Business and Communication: June is also known as the effective communications month as business professionals are said to revisit this topic.
- The Juneteenth Holiday: Also known as the Emancipation Day. This is celebrated to mark the end of slavery in the United States.

As June also brings to our minds the commencement of a beautiful weather in certain parts of the world, it also makes us remember we are almost at the middle of the year. Maybe it is a good time to take stock of what we have done, what we are still doing and what the remaining half of the year should look like. Maybe.

So, choose a few causes or identify with those that naturally fit your vision and kick off the summer with them.

As usual, at the Learning Resource Center we have interesting activities lined up for you. Stay tuned as we share an array of these impactful activities guaranteed to make June even brighter. Welcome to June!
